

More liberty

As workmen for International Salvage and Demolition Co. began salvage operations last week on the S.S. Benjamin Waterhouse, word was passed Wednesday by International's president A. J. Scardino that the company would get five more of the WWII liberty ships - bringing to 10 the number of ships that will be salvaged at the company's Port Bienville facility. Scardino said the company was apparently low bidder on five ships put up by the Florida Marine Conservation Commission.

International preparing for five additional ships

by Dan Barber

Five more liberty ships will eventually be brought to the Port Bienville Industrial Park for salvage operations by International Salvage and Demolition Company, according to president A. J. Scardino.

In a statement to the Echo Wednesday Scardino said that International was apparently low bidder on five additional liberty ships that were turned over to the Florida Marine Conservation Commission for disposal.

"That means," Scardino said, "that we will have 10 ships in the county to work on instead of five."

International successfully bid on five ships being offered by the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission last November. Three of the WWII cargo vessels have been moved to date by tug from Mobile, Ala. to the company's Bienville facility and workmen have begun salvage operations on the first vessel, the ss. Benjamin Waterhouse.

Scardino estimated that the addition of the five vessels could generate as much as $2.4 million into the county's economy, or double the $1.2 million previously projected for the first five ships.

The vessels, which are being dismantled for their valuable ferrous metal by the Nashville based salvage company, will later be sunk to create artificial fishing reefs in coastal waters.

The vessels acquired from the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission will be sunk off the southeast tip of tiny Horn Island in the Mississippi Sound.

Scardino said the new vessels would also be sunk after salvage operations at various locations off the Florida coast. Present plans, he said, are to sink a vessel each off the coastal cities of Miami, Ft. Walton, Destin, Panama City and Pensacola.

The new ships will be brought by tug vessels from the Floridian commission in Tallahassee sometime next January or February probably, Scardino said.

Although, the cost of bringing the ships to Hancock County and then back to Florida means "a lot more expense", Scardino said International was standing by "its commitment to the people of Hancock County."

"And," he continued "these five extra ships mean that the sixty or so people that we will employ will have permanent work now."

The WWII vessels which have an average weight of 7,100 tons before dismantlement were built at a rate of almost one a day during the peak of the war.

Around 2,500 of the cargo ships were built before the end of the war...more than any other vessel before or since.

Scardino said that International hoped to have the first vessel "on station" by early March.

International, which is using building space previously occupied by Coastal Millwork and Supply Co., intends to market the recyclable scrap iron from its warehouse at the industrial park after dismantling the ships.

County told examiner needed to speed up Special Ed screening

by Dan Barber

BAY ST. LOUIS Parents of Hancock County children with learning disabilities and handicaps were apparently still disgruntled Monday after a meeting with state educator Herman White and local school board members left parents and board members uncertain what had been accomplished.

The meeting was called by the Hancock County School board after parents of special ed children have beleaguered board officials since September to create more classes for special ed students in Hancock County.

White, supervisor for special education with the state department of education, was invited to attend the meeting by board members in an attempt to clarify what could be done to speed up the faltering Hancock program.

Following the meeting which was largely a question and answer session with White, "disagreement surfaced between assistant superintendent of education E.E. Breland and state representative Earl (Buck) Ladner over what had been accomplished by the meeting.

Criticism of the effectiveness of the current screening process in Hancock county consumed much of the attention of parents and their supporters.

The biggest complaint voiced by parents was that the screening team, whose function it is to evaluate data on each child and place the child in an appropriate class, simply was not screening students in Hancock County fast enough.

In addition, Dr. Kinsey Stewart, director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, charged a conflict of interest existed with screening team member, Dr. Henry Leon.

"The point is," Stewart told White, "you have put a man in private practice in complete control of your screening process."

Stewart advocated the creation of a second screening team to facilitate the screening process, adding that he had been petitioning the state since August to have the Mental Health Center make a separate screening station.

"Our center is presently not established for doing this kind of screening however," Stewart added. "We are willing to cooperate but have been told repeatedly that this is not our function. We would have been happy to have taken on this screening much earlier if given authority to hire qualified personnel."

Mrs. Wilda Switzer, chairman of the screening team, disagreed with Stewart on the need for a second team. Rather, Mrs. Switzer said, the county needs to hire a certified examiner.

Mrs. Switzer said that the complaint that Harrison County children were being screened faster than those of Hancock County was directly related to the fact that this county does not have its own examiner.

"No funds have been provided on the state level for this screening," she said.

"Each school district is hiring examiners to feed the data into the voluntary screening Committee, and that's the reason Harrison County is moving faster."

White said that if the county could establish special ed classes before the beginning of the second semester they would be in time to receive the 60 percent funding of teacher salaries by the state.

Breland said he did not foresee the county being able to establish any classes before the end of this school year.

"The problem," Breland said, "is that even if we had the children now that we don't have the classrooms we need to put them in. Our number one problem right now is classrooms and our number two problem is obtaining classes."

To a question from White asking if the county was engaged in any building program at present, Breland replied the county "had no program and no money at this time."

White said that one alternative the county might investigate is two school districts combining with one serving in the administrative role.

Following the meeting with White, state representative Ladner disagreed with Breland over what had been accomplished.

"I really don't see that we have accomplished very much by this meeting," Breland said. "We still have about 40 more children that need to be screened and even when we get these children screened it'll be too late to get them in classes this year."

"I would have to disagree with Mr. Breland," Ladner said. "I do think we have accomplished something here. We have found out that the biggest obstacle is in the screening process."

"I'm not so much concerned with the finances," Ladner continued. "The financing will take care of itself."

Following the meeting board president Horace Davis said that he would confer with principals within the county system and with city school officials in an effort to locate an examiner.

"We may have someone presently in the system that is qualified to do this," Davis said.

Hubbard succumbs

Robert G. (Manny) Hubbard, 67, prominent Waveland businessman and life-long resident of Hancock County, died Tuesday, December 10 at 8:20 p.m., in Hancock General Hospital.

Mr. Hubbard, who had been seriously ill for some time, is survived by his wife, Dorothy Thompson Hubbard; three sons, Robert, David and Richard Hubbard all of Waveland; three daughters, Mrs. Ann Levy of Milwaukee, Wisc.; Mrs. P. A. Orlin and Mrs. Steven Erickson, both of Waveland; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Hava of New Orleans and Mrs. Joseph Mollere of Waveland. He is also survived by 10 grandchildren.

Born in Waveland in 1907, Mr. Hubbard attended St. Stanislaus School. He was associated with Railway Express Co. and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for 20 years from 1925 to 1945. In 1942, he was elected to the Waveland board of aldermen representing the fourth ward and remained on that board until his election in 1951 to the county board of supervisors. He served as the Beat Five supervisor for 10 consecutive years and was elected president for several of those terms.

During his tenure in both offices, Mr.

R.G. HUBBARD

Hubbard became widely respected as an official of great personal integrity and was held until his death, in high esteem throughout the county.

Under his leadership, county affairs, long in a state of critical neglect were drastically upgraded as roads, bridges public improvement programs and excessive bonded indebtedness came under honest management.

In his seventh year of office as a supervisor, public acclaim was expressed in a nine-page special edition newspaper published by his supporters. The paper listed the many accomplishments of not only Mr. Hubbard but other members of the board serving with him.

Visitation for family and friends was held last night at Riemann Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis and a funeral service will be held there this morning at 11 a.m. A religious service will be held at St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland at 11:30 a.m., with interment in Waveland Cemetery.

Memorials are requested to the Gulf Coast chapter of the Mississippi Lung Association, Long Beach.

Blood pressure tests

Mrs. Gertrude Stanton of Bay St. Louis gets a free blood pressure test from paramedics Ace Jones and Bill Keen through a new public service program by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service in Hancock County. When not on emergency call, the ambulance unit will be stationed daily in various locations in the Bay-Waveland area to administer free tests to anyone wishing to take advantage of the service. WPUP radio will announce locations and times that the unit is available each day. The two men took 30 tests in two hours on Tuesday, the first day of the service.

Eclipse can damage eyes

A partial eclipse of the sun will occur tomorrow morning and persons observing the eclipse should take precautions to avoid eye damage, according to Dr. William E. Hughes, chairman of the department of physics and astronomy at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Although the time of occurrence will not vary appreciably from north to south Mississippi, the eclipse will begin about 8:10 a.m., reach maximum coverage by 9:30 a.m. and end about 10:50 a.m. in the Hattiesburg area, according to Dr. Hughes.

"The moon will appear to 'skim' across a portion of the sun," explained Dr. Hughes. "Approximately one-half the area of the sun will be covered at maximum eclipse."

Dr. Hughes said the eclipse will be visible if the sky is fair but that persons not expecting the event will probably not notice it since no large change will occur in daylight illumination.

"The progress of the eclipse can be observed conveniently through heavily smoked glass or densely exposed photographic film if the weather is fair," he explained. "However, such observing filters should be used with extreme care because of the possibility of eye damage."

For persons with small telescopes, a safe way to view the eclipse is to project the solar image on a white screen located beyond the telescope eyepiece. "Under no circumstances," warned Dr. Hughes, "should the sun be telescopically observed by any other method than projection."

Dr. Hughes said his department would have several small telescopes with filters set up at the site of the USM Observatory near the USM golf course. He invites anyone wishing to participate in the observation to join him and his staff there.

Decorations work of NO florist

Bright and beautiful Christmas decorations on Coleman Ave. in Waveland can be attributed to the professional talents of Chandler Craig, owner and operator of Keith's Florists in New Orleans.

Mr. Craig has traditionally designed and executed holiday decorations on Canal street in the Crescent City.

This week, Mr. Craig was in Waveland personally helping city crews erect the attractive decorations.

Patrolman charged in shooting

Pass Christian Patrolman John Hayden Jr., who was suspended following last week's shooting of a Bay St. Louis man, was charged Monday in Harrison County Court with assault and battery and intent to maim.

Appearing before County Judge Gaston Hewes, Hayden pled not guilty to the charge and waived the preliminary hearing. Hayden, who is represented by Long Beach attorney James Grant Thompson, was subsequently released on a $5,000 property bond signed by his parents.

The hearing follows the December 2 shooting of John Languirand, 21, of Bay St. Louis. District attorney Albert Nacaise said at the hearing that Languirand is expected to live but that he will probably be paralyzed from the shoulders down.

Nacaise said after the hearing that the March session of the Harrison County grand jury will consider the case.

DEATHS

ERNEST FAIRCONETURE
Ernest (Man) Fairconeture, 78, died at 4:30 a.m., Monday, December 2, at Hancock General Hospital.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Celine Fairconeture, Bay St. Louis; five sons, Ralph and Nolan Fairconeture, both of New York City; Ernest Fairconeture Jr., Philadelphia, Pa.; Ray Fairconeture, Tulsa, Oklahoma; and Landoff Fairconeture, Sacramento, Calif.; five daughters, Mrs. Marie Pruitt, New Orleans; Mrs. Evelyn Spearman, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Marva Dunn and Mrs. Marcella Crowlev, Tulsa, Okla.; and Mrs. Judith Tate, Bay St. Louis. 29 grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Friday at a Requiem Mass at St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church with Rev. Francis Theriault, SVD, of New Orleans and Rev. Walter Brackem, SVD, associate pastor St. Rose de Lima Church, officiating. Interment was in Cedar Rest Cemetery. J. T. Hall Funeral Home, Gulfport, was in charge of arrangements.

Banks are bullish

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Jim Buck Ross, right, and Don Calfee, a Mississippi bank official, examine one of the estimated 460 bulls which are part of Mississippi's bull lease program. Mississippi bankers and cattlemen are helping to whip inflation by upgrading the quality of beef production in the state. Banks participating in the bull lease program purchase the finest bulls available and in turn lease them to cattlemen in their areas.

Long Beach home destroyed in fire

The wood-frame house of Ronnie Huguet on Thompson Road and 28th Street in North Long Beach was totally destroyed early last Thursday in a pre-dawn fire.

The Long Beach Fire Department responded to the call within five minutes and had partially suppressed the fire on the south side of the house when both units ran out of water. A fire department spokesman said the reason the water ran out was that each unit can only hold five hundred gallons of water for runs outside the city.

Two units from the Cuevas Fire Dept. responded to a call from Long Beach and helped to contain the fire which Long Beach fireman John Strickland said was too far advanced for anything to be saved.

The Long Beach department also requested help from Pass Christian which was unable to respond.

Huguet told firemen at the scene that he was awakened by the smell of smoke and found a bedroom wall ablaze. He said he safely evacuated his wife and three-year-old child from the house.

Firemen said that the cause was undetermined but that the probable cause was an electric heater in the bathroom which Huguet said was on.

Burglary suspects arrested for thefts

Four juveniles who were arrested in connection with six Long Beach burglaries were apparently working together, according to authorities.

Family Court Judge Lawrence Semski said Wednesday that one of the juveniles is charged with all six counts, another is charged with five counts, another with four, and another with three burglary counts.

Semski added that one of the youths is being held in detention and that all four are awaiting adjudication.

The Long Beach police and the Harrison County sheriff's department worked together in the arrests.

Five of the six break-ins occurred November 26. They include the Chip and Dipper, which reported $45 in coins taken from the juke box and cash register; Fennell's Photo and Print Shop, which had a cash register, $51 in cash, and a $135 camera taken; The Corner Lounge, which reported a store room key, six dollars, and four fifths of Jim Beam taken; Jack's Pizza, which reported one stereo record player and a collection of world money taken; and the Carousel of Beauty, which reported about $250 in assorted jewelry stolen.

One of the youths is also charged with the November 20 burglary of Mr. G's where a $375 color television was taken.

At press time, Long Beach police had made no arrests in connection with seven other burglaries that occurred between December 3 and December 7.

Coast TIP line expanded for crimes against business

The skyrocketing escalation of losses amounting to an estimated $20.3 billion attributed to crimes against business this year has moved the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission to expand its TIP lines to include such crimes as vandalism, employee theft, burglary and shoplifting, according to Gordon Redd, president of the Commission.

"These incredible statistics," said Redd, "were recently released by the U. S.

Commerce Department and will cost each adult in this country $137. The total loss last year was $15.7 billion. In the absence of local statistics, we here on the Mississippi Coast must identify with these national figures, and the only practical way to combat this problem is on a person-to-person basis. The TIP telephone lines, already in operation, will give each citizen an opportunity to curtail or minimize these losses.

"We urge all individuals with information concerning crimes of vandalism, burglary, employee theft and shoplifting to utilize the TIP lines as a public service. While rewards will continue to be paid in cases involving narcotic pushers, we, of course, will not be able to offer rewards for conviction of these business crimes. In a broad sense, the consumer could receive personal satisfaction and reward in the reduction of prices at the market place."

Earl Riley, executive director of the Commission, reported that mounting business crimes on the Coast have been the subject of study and deep concern to the Commission over the past several months.

He said, "Vandalism alone in Harrison County has been estimated at about $100,000 this year, and including Hancock and Jackson Counties, this figure may reach $250,000. A large percentage of vandalism occurs to public buildings schools and is a direct loss to the taxpayer."

"We should not be so naive as to assume that losses suffered by business will be absorbed by business. This loss through shoplifting, pilfering and employee theft is passed directly on to the consumer. The expansion of the service of the TIP lines to include these business crimes places each citizen in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties on the frontlines in a unique fight against inflation. "We cannot afford the luxury, moral laxity and financial losses these crimes against business cost us. We hope that any individual with information concerning the occurrences of any of these crimes will dial the TIP line in their area and inform us so that we can disseminate this information to the appropriate authorities."

The identity of each person reporting information over the TIP lines is, of course, confidential, and these telephones are in operation on a 24-hour basis, seven days each week. The TIP lines are:

Hancock County, 467-3401; Harrison County, 863-3401; Jackson County, 875-3104.

Rayborn suggests Long Beach cleanup

Talmadge "Tally" Rayborn, executive director of the Pearl River County Development Association, suggested that the Long Beach Civitan Club initiate a month-long beautification and cleanup campaign in Long Beach. He cited the need to clean up the property adjoining the north side of Highway 90 in order to attract more tourists and businesses and to keep it from becoming a public eyesore.

Rayborn, addressing a Monday night Long Beach Civitan meeting, said "the key to good citizenship is that of involvement" in all types of civic activities that tend to create a better community in which to live.

"This takes pride and energy, together with great initiative to accomplish the desired goal," he said. He suggested that "we should take pride in our schools, churches, businesses, and city, by offering cooperation to them all."

Three new members installed into the Club by past president T. D. Lee were Carl Collins, manager, Pine Belt

Savings & Loan; Joseph Valenti, Ldr., U. S. Coast Guard and Executive Officer of the Coast Guard Cutter "Acushnet"; and Rev. Pete Peterson, Vicar, St. Patrick's Episcopal Church.

Sam Lauderdale introduced Miss Susan Irby, staff writer for the Daily Herald, and presented her application for membership in the Long Beach Civitan Club. Miss Irby will become the first woman member of the Long Beach Civitan Club since the membership was opened to both men and women.

Odus Simmons announced that $367 in fruit cake sales had already been made by the members for their annual donation to the Local "Children with Learning Disabilities" Fund. Anyone wanting to buy these fruit cakes should call Odus Simmons at 863-8496, or Sam Maxwell at 863-1556.

Ray Canada, president, announced that an "interesting recording by the president of Civitan International" will be played at the next Breakfast Club meeting December 16 at the Ramada Inn in Long Beach.

Mrs. Betty D'Aquila, coordinator of special education in the Long Beach School District, will discuss her work.

Correction

The Echo regrets that it incorrectly stated in last week's paper that Henry Paul Jordan, 23, of 304A Camille Circle, Waveland, had been charged following a shooting incident involving another black male, Clarence H. Hall, 105B Camille Circle.

The article should have read that Hall was charged with the shooting that left Jordan seriously wounded last Thanksgiving.

Hall was recovering from two gunshot wounds and remained in fair condition this week at Gulfport Memorial Hospital following the incident.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Lader said that the shooting occurred in front of Williams Grocery near where the two men lived in Waveland, rather than by Parkers Grocery on Old Spanish Trail as previously reported to the Echo.

Curtis charged with assault

A Long Beach man was arrested Sunday and charged with assault on a police officer after he allegedly attacked a Harrison County deputy about 4 a.m. Sunday.

George Curtis, 20, Rt. 1, Box 60, Long Beach, is being held in county jail under $5,000 bond in connection with the assault of sheriff's deputy Gordon Allen Jr. The preliminary hearing date is still pending.

A sheriff's department spokesman said that Allen was booking a black male for DUI on West Railroad St. in Long Beach when Curtis "came out of the dark" and started to harass the officer.

After repeated warnings to move on, the deputy reportedly attempted to book Curtis for interfering with an officer.

Curtis allegedly grabbed Allen around the throat, and Allen hit him with his nightstick. The sheriff's department spokesman said at one point Curtis reached inside his pocket and said he would not go with the police officer. Allen then pulled his hand out of his pocket, and Curtis allegedly hit him and ran into a wooded area.

All local police officers responded to the call, and Curtis was arrested at his home later that day.

Under a new federal law, assault on a law enforcement officer is considered a major crime.

OLIVE MCKENNA

JOHN HOLMES

The answer to the question, "Who will win a Louie?" came at the seventh annual Louie Awards of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club December 6.

A large group of theatre members, guests and friends applauded as the 1974 winners in each category presented silver Louie statues to the 1975 winner at the traditional formal dinner.

Award for the Best Director went to Olive McKenna for How The Other Half Loves. Burt Barrett made the presentation.

Prize for the Best Producer went to John Holmes for The Last of the Red Hot Lovers, and was presented by Rubie Chapman.

Alice Holmes, named Best Technical Director of the year for The Last of the Red Hot Lovers received her silver statue from Cal Smith.

Best Actor award went to Ted Stechmann for his outstanding performance in the same Neil Simon play. The presentation was made by Evelyn Griffith on behalf of Helen King.

Mike Cuevas won this year's Louie for Best Actress, presented by Pete Chapman, for her role in How the Other Half Loves.

Douglas Koger received the prize for Best Supporting Actor for his work in How the Other Half Loves from Joe Barbo. Helen Trudell won the Best Supporting Actress accolade for her role as the reluctant housewife in Last of the Red Hot Lovers. Nancy Gex made the presentation.

A surprise presentation for services beyond the call of duty was made to Dorothy Marochino and Wilma Keefe for their unselfish dedication to the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre of many hours of time and labor.

A special award, in the form of a plaque of appreciation was presented by Joe Marochino, president of the theatre board, to J. D. Drake for his "Evening with Mark Twain". Hearing of the theatre's financial plight, Drake offered his performance, which Marochino termed "a fabulous success", for the night without recompense. Visibly moved by the gesture and the certificate, Drake told the more than 100 guests that the

New contract gives orchestra dual role

The New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Society and the New Orleans Opera Association have signed a three year agreement whereby the Symphony will contract its orchestra to the Opera Association, according to an announcement made by Leon Godchaux, II, Symphony Society president and James A. Noe, Jr., Opera Association president.

"Over the 31 year history of the Opera Association (until recently, known as the New Orleans Opera House Association) we had been engaging individual musicians to make up our pit ensemble," said Noe.

"Many of those players were also members of the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra but others were not. In recent years the percentage of the players who were Symphony musicians increased substantially.

"This new arrangement guarantees the Opera Association that it will not only have the assurance of instrumentalists for all its performances but that it will have the finest group of classical musicians in the Deep South," said Noe.

Godchaux said that the Opera will pay a fee directly to the Symphony Society for these services.

"Three operas have already been performed this season under this agreement," said Godchaux.

"This plan will mean the best possible pit music for Opera-goers and evidence to the community that there is real cooperation between these two most important organizations."

New Orleans museum exhibits Rembrandt

The New Orleans Museum of Art has received the generous loan of a Self-Portrait (25 x 20 inches) by the great seventeenth century Dutch artist, Rembrandt van Rijn, from The Norton Simon Foundation, Los Angeles. This important work will be on view for a three-month period in the Northern European Gallery in the Delgado Wing. According to E. John Bullard, NOMA's director, this is the first major painting by Rembrandt to be shown in New Orleans.

The Simon Rembrandt was placed on public exhibition on the evening of November 16, on the occasion of NOMA's annual Odyssey Ball.

During the past year, NOMA has been fortunate to have received other important loans from Norton Simon. In December 1973, 16 major bronze sculptures by the pre-eminent twentieth century British sculptor Henry Moore were lent to New Orleans by the Simon Foundation and the Norton Simon, Inc. Museum of Art. Eleven of these Moore sculptures remain on loan to the New Orleans Museum.

In the series of some 50 self-portraits by Rembrandt, the Simon picture holds a position of particular interest. Painted in the late 1630's (the inscribed date is not completely legible and has been variously read 1633, 1635 or 1638) during Rembrandt's active Amsterdam period, it marks the transition from the self-consciously brilliant and even ebullient self-portraits of his early period to the introspective and increasingly austere self-portraits of his middle and later years.

In comparison with the self-portrait which immediately precedes it, the jolly Rembrandt and Saskia in Dresden, it is strikingly restrained. Although in the Simon painting Rembrandt still delights in wearing jewels and veils, his role is now subservient. Nothing has been allowed to distract from the artist's countenance which looks out at the spectator with a pensiveness no longer free from doubt or pessimism.

All of his other self-portraits from the 20's and 30's possess the high degree of finish demanded of Dutch painters by their patrons. However, since the Simon Self-Portrait is remarkably free in handling, it illustrates the moment when Rembrandt arrived at a new and vigorous style.

Rembrandt is considered the greatest artist of the northern Netherlands. For most 20th century observers Rembrandt's greatness lies in his understanding of and sympathy for the complex world of feelings and emotions, in his ability to represent these in all types of subjects - portraits, as well as scenes from real life, the Bible, history and mythology.

Big shoes to fill

It is a very sobering and disheartening thought that Hancock County has lost three of its most respected public leaders in the past few months, each a man of such high integrity and character that their passing represents a great loss to the community.

Robert G. "Manny" Hubbard, former county supervisor, Waveland alderman and prominent businessman died Tuesday.

He was preceded by the Reverend Charles Giles of Pearllington and Waveland Mayor Garfield Ladner, who died a year ago this week.

The very fact of the loss of these three men is sobering, but the knowledge that there is apparently no one to take their places is what is disheartening.

A passage from a news publication circulated in the county in 1959 in tribute to Manny Hubbard says it well:

"What Manny Hubbard has been able to do for us stands as a monumental lesson to those of us who say it is useless to publicly stand behind men of integrity and intelligence who shoulder their responsibility as American citizens by seeking public office."

Perhaps their memory will serve as an inspiration to those who remain.

Example of stewardship

There is a certainty about the 1975 legislative session in Mississippi.

Education will be a priority item, and legislators will be searching for funds for increasing teachers' pay and for making other improvements.

There is another certainty.

Lawmakers will have a source of additional funds at their fingertips which will go untapped unless the public demands proper use of it.

The source is revenue from 16th Section school lands - lands set aside for the benefit of the public schools of Mississippi.

Studies by the state's Legislative Audit Committee, the Mississippi Economic Council and others point out that lands have been managed more by private treaty rather than as a public trust over the years. Surface leases on some of these 16th sections have been awarded for as little as a quarter-cent per acre, and too many counties have failed to receive maximum benefit from leases of these lands.

In 1974 the Legislature considered a proposal which would have required competitive bids for agricultural leases of these lands. The measure was passed by the House of Representatives but died in the Senate.

Lawmakers who oppose competitive bids should consider results of competitive bidding for 16th Section leases in Leflore County. Income from 16th Section lands leased in September under competitive bids in Leflore County increased by 300 percent over previous leases.

Total income for 16th Section leases in the county for the five-year period 1970-75 was about $162,000. The same lands leased for the 1975-80 period brought $481,000.

Otis Allen, superintendent of Education in Leflore County, has offered to assist other counties in achieving similar success. The best assistance he and the members of the Leflore County board of supervisors can offer, perhaps, is their good example of proper management.

Other educators, county supervisors, and legislators would do well to consider stewardship of Leflore County.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

So, 'tis the season to be jolly. And all the cold weather we've been enjoying makes us think of past winters and the jolly times we've had in them.

It was a few days before Christmas in 1899, seventy four years ago. Snow lay deep over the little Pennsylvania oil town, but happiness was in the air as folks bustled about preparing for the Big Day. After the last school session we scurried over the river to the one and only shopping center with a big dollar bill burning a hole in our pocket: first to the jewelry store to gaze admiringly at the old-time German cuckoo clock which Dad had just bought to give to Mother for Christmas (the clock, now more than a hundred years old is still ticking away in our daughter's house in New Orleans).

Next to the "department" store to marvel at the toys, especially the steel boiler, heated by an oil lamp, which made real steam to turn a small flywheel, and the newfangled small railroad engine with a weighted wheel inside it which propelled it on a long track. People by the dozens were shopping and exchanging Merry Christmases while the change-carriers tinkled and sped on wires overhead. Our goal was the "women's fancies" department, and there, after much debating and comparing, we bought a lace handkerchief for Mother. And we mean lace, for that's what the tiny fragile thing was made of completely!

Man, it was beautiful! So the saleslady put it in a lovely box and sent my dollar bill flying in the overhead carrier to the cashier, who returned my 75 cents change.

From the department store to the tobacconist's little shop, where we invested twenty cents in a plug of Peiperheids tobacco for Dad (alas, he chewed tobacco all his life; it smelled so good that we tried it once, on the sly, with disastrous results!).

Night came crisp and starlit, and we, with the ten other boys and girls of our grade school class, tumbled into the open delivery truck we had rented and burrowed into the hay and horse blankets that lay deep on its floor. Singing and shouting in company with the tinkling sleighbells on the two husky horses, we drove down the frozen river clear to the county seat, seven miles away, where we had a late supper of soup and sandwiches at the local hotel. On the way home past darkened farmhouses and through the woods, our teacher and chaperon told us again the old story of scrooge and the Christmases past and future, made real by the jingling sleighbells.

After carefully placing the lace handkerchief and the plug of tobacco beneath the fresh-cut tree, we went to bed and slept our way into the joys of the last a Christmas Day of the dying century.

BYGONE DAYS

5 YEARS AGO . . . Plans for the largest residential-resort recreational community in the southern part of the United States, to be located on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, were unveiled last Thursday at a press conference attended by many state and city officials. William H. Maurer, President, Diamondhead Properties, Inc., presented detailed information on the project.

10 YEARS AGO . . . Roy Baxter, of Pearllington, has been chosen chairman of the newly organized Gainesville Museum Committee, being established under the auspices of NASA's Mississippi Test Operations, to preserve historical data in the area it is taking over.

25 YEARS AGO . . . W. A. McDonald and Sons has started a new development which should help to create additional payroll for Bay St. Louis. It has been recognized that there are many small boats in this area, all of which are built in adjoining towns and more distant places, and in an effort to create local business this new department has started to build several types of small boats. It is their intention to build fishing skiffs, pirogues, and two types of sailboats - the lightning, 20 ft. sailboat, and the Penguin, a 12 ft. sailboat.

50 YEARS AGO . . . Greater stars and bigger pictures for 1925 seems to be the slogan for the A & G Theatre management, at least this is indicated by the announcement made this week for forthcoming pictures. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "The Sea Hawk" are among the more prominent features booked for Bay St. Louis.

EDUCATING OUR VETERANS

As college administrators are fond of pointing out, "Education doesn't cost; it pays."

For that and many other reasons, Congress overwhelmingly overturned President Ford's veto of a bill authorizing a 22.7 per cent increase in educational benefits for Vietnam-era veterans. And it wasn't even close: 394-10 in the House and 90-1 in the Senate.

Frankly, I was disappointed that President Ford chose to veto the bill in the first place. I considered it not only the most reasonable measure we could come up with, but also the least expensive.

Accordingly, I voted to override the veto.

H. R. 12628, a long overdue and urgently needed piece of legislation, is now law and eligible veterans should begin to receive the increase very shortly. Hopefully, it will help to offset the ever-increasing cost of living for those veterans now struggling to get an education.

Actually, President Ford's reasons for vetoing the measure are very sound

-on the surface.

President Ford said he rejected the bill because he was trying to hold down federal spending. Well, I, too, want to hold down federal spending, but I don't want the veteran to be the first to "bite the bullet."

Besides, education is the best investment this country can make. When you educate a man, you open a new world to him.

Then, too, I found it exceedingly difficult to reject a veterans increase at the same time we were continuing to fund outrageous programs all over this globe. I just could not justify that in my mind.

As members on both sides of the aisle have said many times, money spent on the GI Bill simply generates more money. We learned that for every dollar spent on GI Bills for both World War II and Korean Conflict veterans, at least $3 to $6 in additional tax revenues returned to the Treasury.

The simple truth is that an educated veteran is going to earn more than an uneducated veteran.

In individual terms, the new law will mean a boost from the present $220 a month to $270 for the unmarried veteran attending college on the GI Bill. For a married veteran with one child, the increase will provide $336 instead of $298.

About two million veterans are presently receiving education benefits at a cost to the taxpayer of $2 billion a year. The new law will raise that by $800 million a year for the next five years.

Tacked to the bill is a stipulation that extends the period of eligibility from 36 to 45 months. Without that extension, time would run out on thousands of veterans struggling to get their college degree.

To show just how adamant we were that the veteran receive this increase, the House made it effective September 1, 1974, the beginning of the current school year.

It was a simple case of priorities as far as I was concerned. H. R. 12628 is the best possible GI Bill we could pass and I am pleased to see it enacted into law.

WARNING SYSTEM
On Nov. 19, 1964, the U.S. and Canadian governments announced agreement to build a 3,000-mile radar warning system across the Canadian arctic.

Public employees shouldn't strike is MEC stand

The Mississippi Economic Council has declared that public employees should not be given the right to strike.

At the same time MEC said state and local governments should neither recognize nor bargain with any unions on behalf of public employees.

The strong stand against public employee unions came at the semi-annual meeting of the Council's board of directors.

The 90-member board, meeting in Jackson, adopted the policy statement as a part of a study conducted by the organization's Committee on Employer-Employee Relations.

In other action the Council reaffirmed its recommendations for an appointed state highway commission, equalization of property assessments and an expanded, lay State Board of Education.

Election of officers for the Council's 1975-76 year, beginning May 1, 1975, was also a part of the meeting's activities.

Opposition to public employee unions was adopted as part of a report on national and state public employee organizational activity prepared by a committee headed by Eupora manufacturing executive Jack Greenleaf.

MEC President Joe F. Tatum of Hattiesburg said the report pointed out that a clear distinction must be drawn between public employees and employees in the private sector.

"The public interest is not served to any extent by affording public employees the privilege of collective bargaining or strikes," Tatum declared.

Tatum said the Council believes it is essential that authority and power given to elected officials not be delegated to a person or organization answerable to neither the governmental authority nor the public.

"It is essential that public services not be impaired by demands, strikes or other disruptions associated with collective bargaining," Tatum continued.

The MEC president said the policy adopted by the Board of Directors in opposition to strikes against the government or any of its subsidiaries included the federal government as well as state and local governments.

The MEC board, convened for its first of two meetings during the Council year, also heard reports and adopted recommendations from the Council's seven other general committees responsible for the work of the 3,400-member organization.

In addition to the public unions recommendation, the Council also reaffirmed its recommendations calling for the equalization of property assessments.

The Board reaffirmed this position following a motion by Business Climate Committee chairman J. Kearney Dossett of Jackson.

The Jackson attorney declared, "Equalization of property assessments is essential if we are to generate local revenue in an equitable manner." The Business Climate Committee chairman pointed out that equalization by classification, as called for by some state organizations, would compound assessment inequities and would not be an improvement over the current unfairness in property assessments.

The Council also renewed its call for an expanded, lay State Board of Education and approved other education recommendations offered by its Education Committee chaired by Dr. Clyde Muse, superintendent of education in Meridian.

Other committee chairmen making reports included Jack E. Harper, Jr., of Indianola, Community Services; Marion Smith of Natchez, Governmental Affairs; Aubrey Lucas of Cleveland, Human Resources; and Paul Pittman of Tyler, Image.

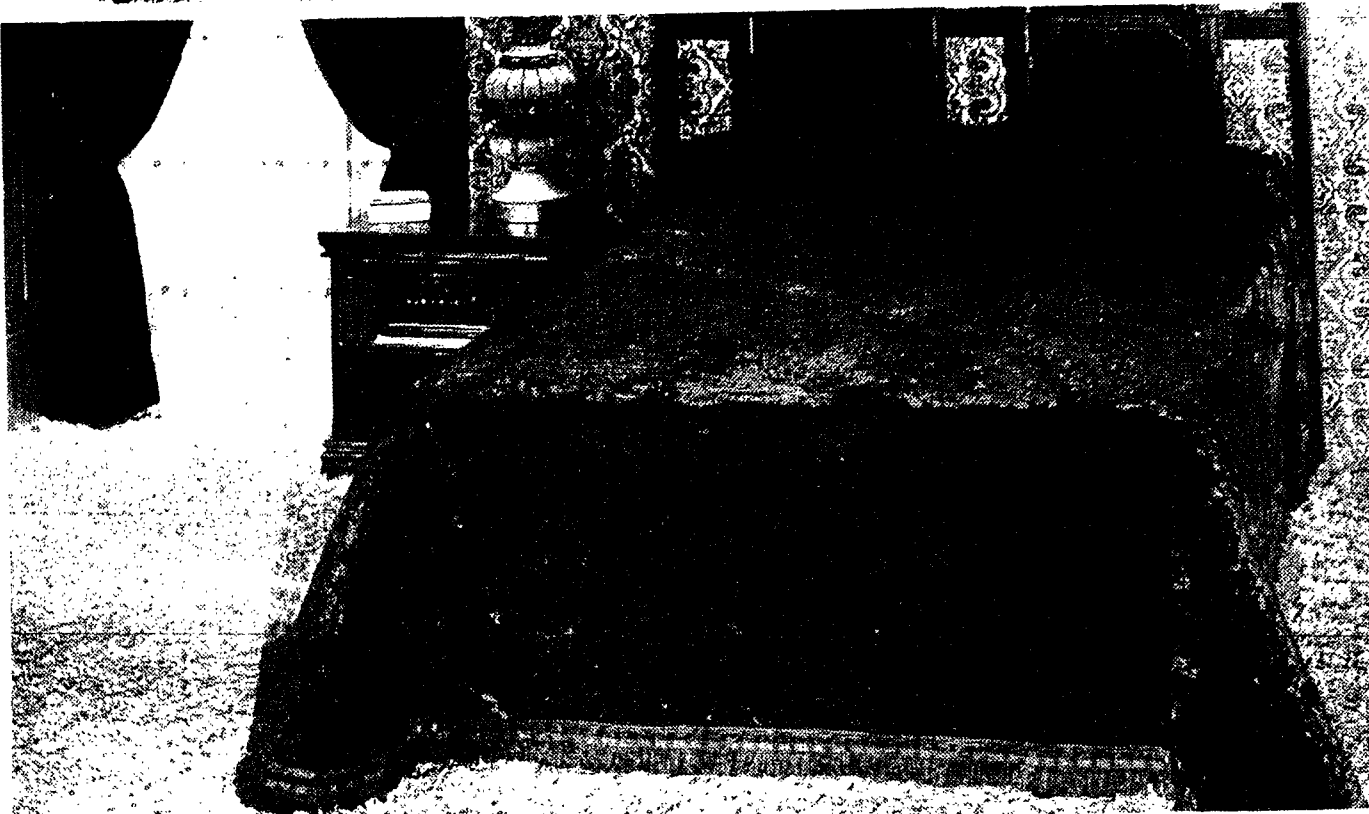

Officers elected for the coming fiscal year included Walter L. Ellis III of Kosciusko, president; Dewey H. Lane of Pascagoula, vice president and president-elect; and Perrin L. Caldwell of Senatobia, treasurer.

Clerical training opens at Jax State

Dr. Norman Handy, director of the continuing education program at Jackson State University has announced a new program that is a joint venture between Jackson State University and the State Vocational Education Department.

The venture is a training program designed to train clerical and secretarial personnel and is being funded by a $34,016 grant from the State Department of Education. An open-ended project, the training program can accommodate as many as 50 persons and will last through June, 1975.

Specifically geared toward under-employed and unemployed persons, high school drop-outs or female heads of households, the primary thrust of the program is to train persons who can successfully compete for top-level positions as medical and legal secretaries. Also, the program will offer training in keypunch, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, office machines, and various other secretarial and clerical skills.

There are no fees charged for participating in the program which will provide individualized instruction for each trainee. The curriculum will be organized in flexible blocks of instruction with all needed segments of training organized as an integral part of the individual plan.

Trainees will be accepted into the program according to the number of available slots and the practical time of training left.

The trainee's time spent in each course will vary according to the individual's ability to acquire training and experience necessary for employment. Trainees will be referred to the Employment Service when training is complete and when jobs are ready, and other trainees will be accepted as vacancies occur.

Classes will meet from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily.

Persons who have passed the GED exam or who are high school graduates will be granted applicable college credits once training is complete.

Interested persons should contact Dr. Norman Handy, Continuing Education Department, Jackson State University, Jackson, Miss. 39201, for recruitment, admission, and provides services and instruction to all persons without regard to race, religion, or national origin.

New program cuts red tape

High school students planning to enter the University of Southern Mississippi in the fall of 1975 will discover that all needless red tape and paperwork involving admissions have been eliminated, announced Gene D. Saucier, dean of special academic services.

The University is instituting the new ACT-APP Program, the first such program in Mississippi, under which students who send their ACT scores to USM will not be required to send high school transcripts and will not have to make formal application.

"High school seniors who list the University as their first or second choice on the American College Test (ACT) profile will be given tentative acceptance automatically without having to file an additional application form," said Dean Saucier.

Applicants are not placed under any additional obligation, financial or otherwise, Dean Saucier pointed out.

The ACT assessment program is a standardized test which helps universities and colleges estimate a student's potential for success in academic and non-academic efforts.

"ACT provides dependable information for counseling, financial aid, and placement of college freshmen to appropriate class sections," explained Dean Saucier. "The student can indicate his special needs and abilities so that colleges can improve their educational services to students."

Students must take the ACT to be admitted to USM, and must meet the University's entrance requirements.

Preliminary approval of freshmen-admission will be granted upon receipt of the official report of the ACT. Individual student evaluations by a counselor or principal will not be required for admission purposes, but counselors and principals will be invited to send an evaluation when they feel this will be helpful.

"The ACT data will be fed into the computer, which will analyze the data and provide a print-out that will be mailed to the students notifying them they've met the admissions requirements," said Dean Saucier.

"The University's two basic requirements for admission to the freshman class are graduation from high school and an acceptable ACT score (composite standard score of 15).

Students who do not list USM as first or second choice on the ACT profile may still gain admission by filing the traditional application form with the USM Admissions Office.

"The predictive sections of the ACT," explained Dean Saucier, "which relate an individual student to an individual college, and, in addition, to individual majors and courses within the college, are predicated on the well-known fact that high school grades are the most dependable factors in estimating probable college performance. "High school grades in key areas are not only reported to the University in the ACT Report, but are also given primary weight in predicting the student's probable college grades."

"The dependability of predictions made in this manner has been firmly established at the university. Practically all of the University's academic advising and counseling functions will be carried on with the ACT Profile Report as the basic reference, along with the wealth of the non-academic but related information which the Profile Report makes available."

Dean Saucier said that very little use is now made of the high school transcript by University offices and that time and money spent in reproducing, handling and distributing thousands of high school records each year is for all practical purposes wasted and could be better spent in other areas of service to students.

The ACT is administered nationwide on set dates at approved testing centers, with deadline for registering at 30 days before the actual test date. Dates coming up are Dec. 14, Feb. 22, April 26 and June 14.

Dean Saucier said that students would be notified of acceptance, within approximately six weeks after taking the ACT.

For additional information, contact the Admissions Office, Southern Station Box 11, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39401.

Teen center closes

Trader John's Teen Scene in Pass Christian closed its doors Tuesday afternoon.

But before closing them, they moved out the pinball machines, they moved out the pool tables, and the foosball tables, and the vending machines because Trader John's was closing its doors for the last time.

The teen center, which claimed a total membership of 300, was a recreation center for children in grades 6-12. It had opened for business on October 13, 1973.

Trader John Deffees said that one of the reasons he was closing the Teen Scene was that maintaining and repairing the building had cut his operating capital to zero.

Deffees also said that the Teen Scene was under "constant harassment of the Pass Christian police, and bigoted residents of the commercial neighborhood."

He said that residents in the area constantly complained about the noise even when there were no disturbances. When asked in what way the Pass Christian police department harassed the teen center, Deffees said that the police who frequently patrolled the area told youths standing outside "Trader John's" to either move on or go inside. "It made it sound like this was a prison," said Deffees.

Deffees also said that two Pass Christian aldermen applied pressure to the police department "all of which, to say the least, made things less enjoyable." When asked who the two aldermen were, Deffees declined to elaborate, saying, "They know who they are."

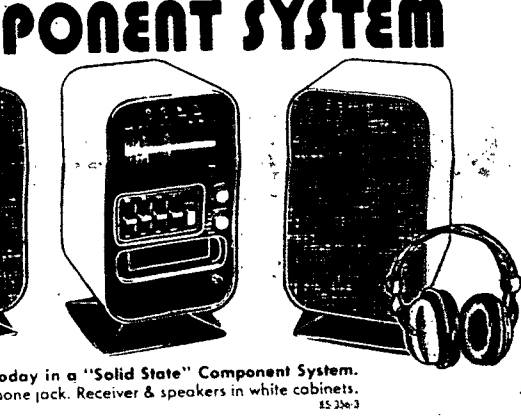

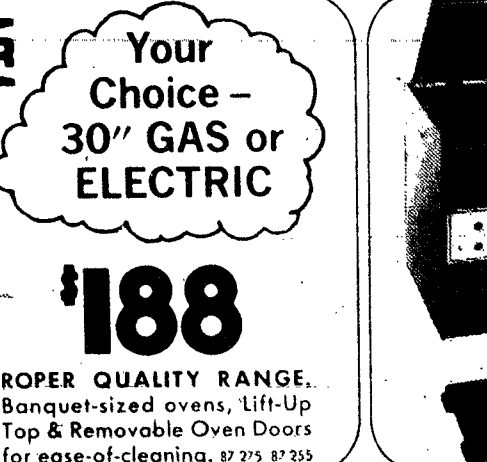

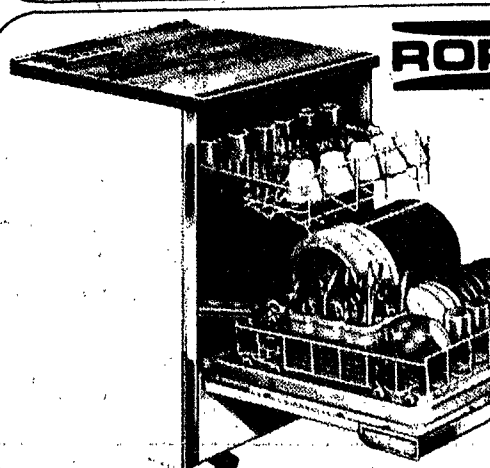

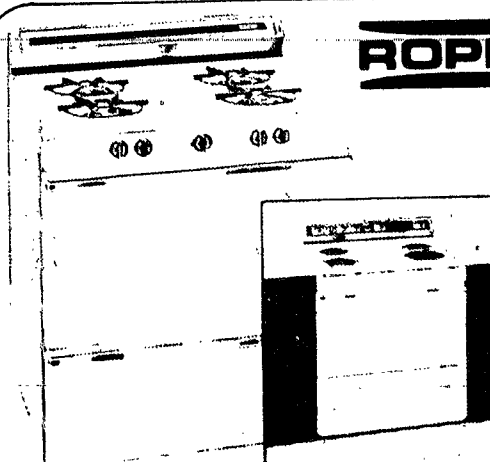

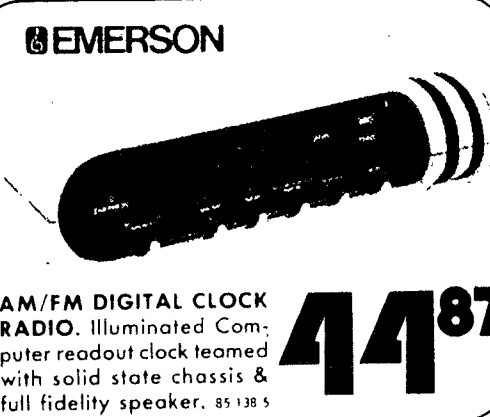

"Trader John's was a nice place for kids to hang out and keep out of trouble," said Deffees. When asked if he had plans to re-open the teen center at a later date, Deffees answered, "You will be hearing from us in the future."

Deffees released a breakdown of the people who frequented Trader John's. Eighty percent of the club members were from Pass Christian, and the other 20 percent came from DeLisle, the Bay area, and the Gulfport-Biloxi area.

Reflections of the past

A SOARING STEEPLE, Gothic spires and flying buttresses gave Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis the appearance of a medieval cathedral somewhere in Europe, before the magnificent building was completely destroyed by fire, some time before 1908. The interior of the church, in keeping with the exterior, was opulent and beautiful with Byzantine characteristics and enclosed carved pews. This rare photo was submitted by Mrs. J. T. Parrillo, Sr. of Bay St. Louis, who said it belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Celine Gardebled, mother of Mrs. Eulalie Fayard. The equally beautiful French Normandy design of St. Joseph's Academy at right was reputedly also destroyed in the same fire.

Holiday events outlined for students

The boys and girls from Special Education class levels one and two of North Bay Elementary in Bay St. Louis entertained the residents of Miramar Lodge Nursing Home in Pass Christian with a talent show this week.

The 28 children aged 6 to 12 sang, danced and played musical instruments in pantomime. Kent Bell from Bay Senior High Special Ed. class came with them and did a tap-slapping routine.

The children participating in the program were Rose Thomas, Andy Galloway, Lucy Saucier, Ronald Galloway, James Simpkins, Amy Saucier, Bubba Saucier, Antoinella McKay, James Jeantreau, Patricia Rogers, Jeff Collins and Fay Johnson.

Also in the group were Ronnie Verdon, Rita Saucier, Rodney Washington, Margo Saucier, Emmett Ellis, Angela Fayre, Nathan Pavolini, Patricia Bell, Franklin Reed, Diane Saucier, Henry Saucier, Rowena Thompson, Sherry Gargett, Elijah White, Linda Saucier, and Debra King. The teachers are Anne Ladner and Diane Douglas with Mrs. Caldwell, Teachers aide.

In the offing tomorrow is a trip to the Edgewater Mall in Gulfport to see the Christmas decorations and to allow the children to purchase items with any money they may have saved.

On December 18, the children will visit the Hancock County Nursing Home to sing Christmas carols and deliver Christmas decorations they made.

The children have also been working hard to earn color chips to buy items at the Special Christmas Shop on December 19. Money can not be used at this time. These chips are rewards for good work and behavior and can be exchanged for gifts of their choice.

Haas elected to USM board

Bay St. Louis attorney Michael D. Haas was re-elected recently to the 40 member board of directors of the University of Southern Mississippi Foundation.

The Foundation, which acts as a receptacle for all gifts to the University, set a record fund-raising year with contributions to date totaling $317,000.

The election of officers and directors was held during the Foundation's annual meeting at Homecoming. Haas graduated from Southern in 1955.

Haas and his wife, Myrt, live at 712 South Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis. They have six children: Tish, 16; Michael, 15; Stephan, 9; Jennifer, 7; Elizabeth, 4; and Laura, 3.

Board states pros and cons of economic picture

How is Mississippi faring in her quest for economic parity with the rest of the nation? The answer to this question is many-faceted; sometimes nebulous, sometimes optimistic or discouraging, depending on what statistics you read and whose quotes you choose.

In its responsibility as the state's economic development agency, the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board must deal realistically with statistics, facts and opinions, both pro and con.

"Presenting a complete, factual picture of how Mississippi can serve their needs is primary in our dealings with prospects," says Jim Miller, manager of the Board's Industrial Department. "And these needs range from site, labor and transportation availabilities to educational and cultural opportunities."

How does Mississippi measure up in these areas? Tom Lawton, president, Lawton Unlimited, Inc., and an independent industrial plant consultant in speaking before the recent Governor's Conference on Economic Development, sees it this way.

"Mississippi has many operating cost advantages to offer business, despite its geographic location placing it some 500 miles or more from the major U. S. industrial and consumer markets." With many companies and products this marketing problem tends to run the distribution costs prohibitively high.

"On the other hand," Lawton went on to say, "other operating cost factors, especially labor, are substantially more favorable when compared with other locations and can therefore provide savings that would offset the freight cost penalties."

He listed power costs, tax costs, land and building costs differentials, sophisticated vo-tech training and the availability of revenue bonds as favoring Mississippi.

The limited availability of developed industrial site locations along the Mississippi River he considers a decided disadvantage, but one that can be remedied.

In terms of living conditions Lawson stated that many company executives still consider Mississippi, with the exception of Jackson and the Gulf Coast, as "rural and backward...a stereotyped preconception, developed from the fact that the state lags behind the nation in per capita income, and that it has a lower level of educational achievement and has only eight cities with over 25,000 in population." He went on to say, "I think we all agree that the statistics have painted an inaccurate picture."

Another view expressed at the Economic Development Conference was that of Pat McCart, plant manager, Packard Electric Company. McCart came to Mississippi two years ago with the announcement of the General Motors plant at Clinton and will take over management of the announced Brookhaven facility when it is completed. He said, "The State of Mississippi is on the threshold of economic greatness. If those in positions of leadership reinforce the positive work attitudes of our people," Mississippi's people, he feels, are its greatest asset.

On the negative side, McCart listed "image," and the need for a united statewide effort to provide good, well serviced industrial sites. On the plus side, he cited climate, good junior and senior college systems, attitude of labor, positive approach of business and government leadership toward industry, good recreational and cultural activities, transportation system and highways.

Both men agree that Mississippi has a lot to offer and is in a strong competitive position, if the rest of the country just knew about it. The completion of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway will do much to lower freight costs with low-cost waterborne transportation. The construction of the Superport off the Mississippi-Alabama coast will bring with it the prospect of the higher wage chemical and petro-chemical companies who will welcome Mississippi's good labor relation situation.

In recent years, A & I records show that the highest proportion of new plant and equipment expenditures are being made by heavy industries which have products of high value and-or technology.

Cold, hard statistics are sometimes easier to deal with than opinions, no matter how authoritative, but are only meaningful when compared with other statistics.

The Mississippi Research and Development Center, in its publication Mississippi's Changing Economy, 1973, shows that in the 1960's the state's average annual per capita income growth rate was the highest in the nation. The same per capita income has doubled in the state in the past eight years, and the period from 1972-73 shows an 11.5 percent increase. But, it is still not at a rate high enough to bring us out of last place nationally.

USM-ETV combine for credit courses

The University of Southern Mississippi will participate in a "first" for the state - the opportunity for individuals to earn college credit through courses which will be broadcast by the Mississippi Educational Television Network, starting in January.

In order to earn credit, individuals must register before January 20 for a course with the University. Information may be obtained from Dr. Conrad Welker, Box 413, Southern Station, Hattiesburg, 39401.

The first telecourses to be broadcast include "The Consumer Experience," a personal financial management information series emphasizing a constructive approach to consumer's rights;

Also, "Dimensions in Cultures," a general introductory to cultural anthropology, an examination of the process of culture and personality development;

And, "Communication I," designed to help the viewer recognize the extent to which communication functions in personal life; how inability to communicate effectively contributes to many problems, personal, community and worldwide.

Courses carry three semester hour credits each, except for the communication offering, which is a one-hour credit.

Information obtainable from Dr. Welker will include ETV channel, viewing hours, cost, registration procedure, and other aspects.

First Bicentennial flag on the Coast is raised in Bay St. Louis

Sunday was an historic occasion in Bay St. Louis when the first Bicentennial Flag to be raised on the Mississippi Gulf Coast was raised by Mrs. Robert Bird, regent of the Gulf Coast chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution. She was assisted by Oswald M. Smith, Jr., president of the Colonial Patriots chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet on Highland Drive.

Mrs. Max L. Pharr, of Jackson Mississippi's State DAR regent, announced as state bicentennial project the beautification of DAR owned property on the site of the famous French Fort Rosalie situated on the bluff overlooking the Mississippi River in Natchez. The 66 chapters of the DAR located throughout Mississippi voted unanimously to support this project with a completion date set for 1976 as an extension of the Rosalie Shrine.

Mrs. Pilet was appointed to the Special Committee with the post of Rosalie chairman and hosted a Bicentennial tea immediately following the flag ceremony.

Introduced by the hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. William H. McCandless of New Orleans together with her mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Garner of Bay St. Louis who made a presentation of the flag which draped the casket of her late husband to the DAR owned and operated. Kate Duncan Smith school in Grant, Alabama. The flag was accepted for delivery by Mrs. Bird.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. G. Watson Prindiville, coordinator of the City-County Library, for her knowledgeable research and selection of ant-copywriting era rare books long since out of print and kept under lock and key at the library.

The DARs voted to nominate Mrs. Prindiville as their candidate for the Laurel Wreath award for her efforts in building intellectual interest and cultural improvements along the coast.

On exhibit in the reception rooms were articles used in writing, including a paper weight once on the desk of John Hart, signer of the Declaration of Independence; a sand-caster, antique stamp case, presentation ink bottle, silver candle stand and a portrait of the late "Miss Lu", Mrs. Harry H. Morehead a past regent, author of Old Spanish Trails and a Rosalie hostess representing DAR during Garden Pilgrimage tours.

Providing background information, Mrs. Pilet said, "In 1938 the DAR purchased the mansion Rosalie which has been preserved as a shrine for future generations. The mansion is rich in antiques and the site of Fort Rosalie is a center of historic interest. Flags of the French, the English and Spanish flew on this site and in 1798 when the Spanish were forced to leave, the Stars and Stripes were raised for the first time in the Mississippi Territory."

At Sunday's tea hostesses in Revolutionary period costumes greeted members of the DAR chapters, their sponsored Children of the American Revolution, members of the SAR, and their guests.

Among the many historic artifacts and displays on view, all privately owned, were commemorative bone china pieces by Aynsley of England, 1775, commemorating the 350th anniversary of the sailing of the pilgrims owned by Mrs. Edmond Fahey of Bay St. Louis and a display of Revolutionary period costumes and clothing worn by a forebear of the Robert Birds.

In the studio was a display arranged through the courtesy of the Rene deMontluzins showing a washbowl, soap dish and water jug of Royal porcelain, along with early soaps and the 4711 original eau de Cologne. The deMontluzins will soon celebrate the family's 100th anniversary as pharmacists and perfumers in Bay St. Louis.

Church and Needs is theme

"The Church and the Needs of Older Mississippians" is the theme of a series of workshops which will be conducted among church leaders across the state beginning in January.

The three-day workshops will be sponsored by the North Mississippi Methodist Home for the Aging, Inc., Tupelo, Mississippi in cooperation with and funded by the Mississippi Council on Aging. A committee composed of ministers and educators from all denominations across the state has been formed to serve as a planning and steering group for the workshop.

The objective of the workshops is to increase the awareness of Mississippians' religious leaders concerning the process of aging and the problems faced by older Mississippians as well as to develop programs which may lead to a successful solution, according to the Rev. J. W.

Carroll, executive director of the North Mississippi Home for the Aging and director of the workshop project.

"The long range goal of the program," Rev. Carroll said, "is to develop more effective ministries to older persons by local church and denominational groups. The workshop project will cover a series of topics ranging from an understanding of what the aging process means and how ministry can be helpful, to specific planning for back home projects."

The first workshop will be held in Tupelo, January 27-29, at Traceway Manor followed by workshops in Cleveland, February 17-19 on the Delta State University Campus; Jackson, March 3-5 in the Baptist Building and the final workshop to be held on the Gulf Coast, April 7-9 at the University of Southern Mississippi, Gulf Park Campus, Approximately 400 pastors and church leaders from various denominations are expected to participate. "Hopefully the workshop project will help to create an atmosphere in which our churches will recognize the value of their role in promoting significant ministries to Mississippians' older citizens," Rev. Carroll concluded.

Information concerning the workshop is available by contacting Mrs. Lila Donaldson, Workshop Coordinator, Traceway Manor, Tupelo, or Jim Young, Mississippi Council on Aging, Box 5136, Jackson.

Harlequins enters season with Christmas dance

A new social organization has come to the fore on the Coast, this one composed of a select group of sub-teens in the junior high age group.

Harlequins was organized by a committee of parents, based primarily in Pass Christian, although young members range from Waveland to Gulfport. The majority are students at Coast Episcopal High School and St. Stanislaus.

Harlequins' first event, a most successful formal Christmas dance, was held Saturday evening at the Long Beach Ramada Inn, with about 30 young members and their guests attending. The party had everything including an excellent band, Scorch, a Christmas tree and even Santa Claus, who arrived in the middle of the festivities to present each young guest a Harlequins favor.

Committee members at Saturday's dance included Mr. and Mrs. James Drury, Mr. and Mrs. Rory Rafferty, Mrs. Sheelah Maginnis, Mrs. George Morse, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Northrup.

The next activity in the planning is a pre-Mardi Gras costume party at a Pass Christian site.

INSTANT MORTGAGE FINANCING

EASY ST

Home Ownership Is Easy ... The Jim Walter Way!

Jim Walter makes it easy for you to own a new, permanent home on your property. And, because Jim Walter handles all of the details, with no red tape, no delay and no "third party" to make the decision, INSTANT mortgage financing can be fast and easy, too. Choose one of the more than 20 two-, three- or four-bedroom, one- or two-bath homes that best suits your family's needs. Then, custom construction — not pre-fab or pre-cut — can begin almost immediately. Shortly thereafter, you'll begin enjoying the pride of home ownership.

Yours will be finished completely on the outside, including foundation, shutters and two coats of long-lasting paint. Superior materials, such as "wood-made-better" hardboard siding that seldom needs painting, heavy-duty bonded roofing that lasts for years, and aluminum windows that never need paint, will be used in construction. The inside will be finished to almost any stage. You tell us where to stop, then complete the rest yourself to save many extra dollars. You may purchase interior materials and installation of ELECTRICAL WIRING & FIXTURES; PLUMBING; KITCHEN & BATH FIXTURES & CABINETS; FLOORING; WALLS; DOORS & TRIM. When Jim Walter installs all interior options, you just paint or paper walls, paint trim, connect to outside utilities and move in. Or you may purchase the "shell" home, complete only on the outside, and install all interior materials in your spare time to make your home even more affordable. Either way, the cost of inside finishing options can be included in your mortgage.

We want you to know exactly what your cost and monthly mortgage payment would be. Call, visit or send the coupon to the nearest Jim Walter Homes display park for complete, no-obligation information on the more than twenty beautiful homes that can be custom-built almost anywhere that you own property.

• OVER 20 MODELS • BUILT ON YOUR PROPERTY

anniversary with us in conjunction with our appreciation party. We were honored to have them cancel a previous dinner engagement with relatives in N. O. to be with us. They did a lovely waltz while Conrad and I sang "The Anniversary Waltz".

The word "Thanks" seems to be getting monotonous in this writeup, but this world would be a much better place in which to live if each one of us stopped long enough to give thanks and appreciation for the things others do for us.

Most of all Thanks to God, as expressed in the following Stanza which we of the Senior Citizens Choral Group sing to the tune of "Thanks to God" from the Hymns of Glorious Praise:

Thanks for bringing us together,
With our volunteers this day.

Thanks also for this fine weather,
Help us Lord, along our way.

Thanks for Pop's and Betty's music
Thanks to all who've helped us here

Thanks for this food you have provided
Thanks to God for being near.

Tigers face major challenges

The Bay High Tigers will face two major challenges to their early season basketball supremacy within the next week as the Tigers take on Harrison Central tonight away and then host D'Iberville next Monday night at home.

Both games should give the young but gritty Tiger squad more than enough action for one night.

For Bay High coach Mike Necaise, the game with Harrison Central will carry special meaning since Necaise was former coach of the Red Rebels for two years before coming to Bay High.

"It's going to be a real emotional game for me," Necaise said this week. "I expect to see a lot of the boys I coached playing against us."

Necaise said he intends to go into his bag of tricks to try to stop Harrison Central, which is known for its big, powerful teams.

"They're big and they're quick," Necaise said, "and we think they're tougher than Gulfport East."

The Tigers lost an earlier match to Gulfport East 67-51 when the two teams met in the Pass High Invitational Tournament.

"We're going to do a couple of things that we hope will compensate for some of their power," Coach Necaise said.

Tigerette coach Willie Bradley said he expected the Harrison Central to be "our toughest game of the year" but that he felt the Bay High girls were equal to the test. Bradley's girls are currently riding a 5-0 winning streak and are coming off an impressive three game sweep of the Pass High Invitational tournament.

After Harrison Central the Bay High players must get themselves up again quickly for their match with dark horse D'Iberville here next Monday.

The Tigers last game before the Christmas break will be against Notre Dame Dec. 20 at Notre Dame.

While fan turnout has been increasing with each Tiger game, both Coach Necaise and Bradley said they could always use more.

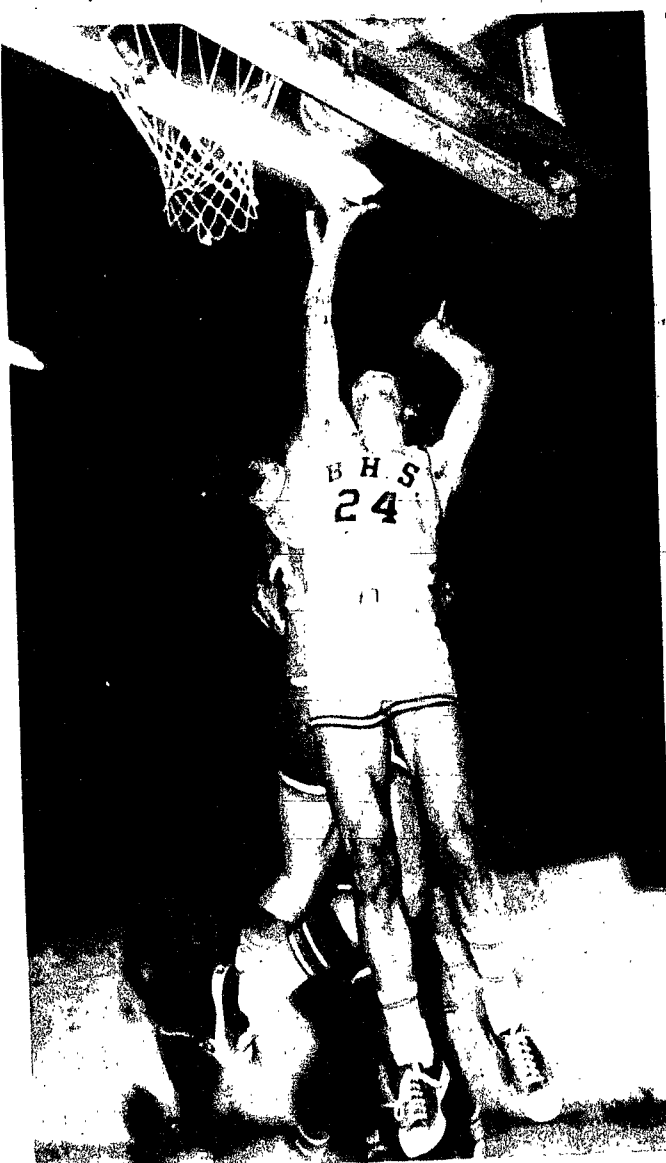

All alone

Bay High center Mike Magee is all by himself on this layup after the fast break against the Vikings last Thursday in the Pass High Invitational Tournament.

Tigers sting Hornets, 68-48

TRACY KLEIN (51) battles Mike Smith (30) and another unidentified Poplarville player for a fourth quarter rebound. Adrian Farve (5) and David Dorn (20) of Bay High look on.

Now is the time of year that all sportsmen like. Time to hunt and time to fish. Most all hunting seasons are open and have been getting good reports of squirrels, rabbits.

ducks, geese and deer being killed.

As for fishing most any kind is good. Bass with tides falling in the afternoons are hitting exceptionally well. They are being gotten mostly on underwater baits. Cold weather has affected this kind of fishing, however salt water fishing for specks, red fish.

Gulfport East ends Tiger hopes in Pass tourney

by Dan Barber
After an opening round win over Long Beach (74-69) in the Pass High Invitational Tournament Dec. 4, the Tigers bowed to Gulfport East 67-51 the following night.

In fairness to the Tigers it should be noted that it was the third game in as many nights for the young but upcoming squad. In equal fairness to a fine Gulfport East team though, the Tigers were simply outclassed.

The big and strong Gulfport team clearly dominated the backboards to get the second and third shot over the smaller Tigers and forced the Tigers to take the outside shot much of the night as they effectively jammed up the middle.

For the girls though it was a different piece of cake as the Tigerettes came home with all the marbles.

The Tigerettes swept three games in a row to capture the Pass Invitational crown, defeating in succession Gulfport East (57-17), Long Beach (43-31) and Pass High (41-33).

Dan Barber

In addition, the Tigerettes Sandra Lyons received the tournament's Most Valuable Player trophy.

Named to the All Tournament team were Tigerettes Perry Whavers, Sandra Lyons and Connie Payne.

Leading scorers for the Tigerettes in the three games were: (East) Connie Payne-14, Perry Whavers-8, Prima Luke-8 and Monica Price-7; (Long Beach) Whavers-15, S. Lyons-11, Price-7, Payne-7; (Pass) Lyons-16, Whavers-14, and Price-7.

In the boys tournament Allison Farve was the only Tiger named to the all tournament team. Farve had 22 points against Gulfport East and was the leading scorer for both teams. The only other etc. has been o.k. most everywhere.

Had a call the other day asking where speckles can be caught by trolling and casting. They have been caught at Bayou Caddy, anywhere down Heron Bay, way, upper and outer Campbell Bayous and the Pipe Line Canal, off and along the Highway and Railroad Bridges. To find where they are one must go and try them. Red fish are still being caught most anywhere with dead and live shrimp.

Met Dr. J. De Rutherford, Jr. III, of Jackson, Miss. the other day. He spent a week at the local hospital. Doc is a local boy and was a member of the scout troop of which I was a scout master. He is a hunter and fisherman of the 3rd degree. Still loves it he said.

Understand that Osmond Blaize, Jr. caught 10 nice speckles at Bayou Caddy the other day by trolling. The big ones must be moving in.

Gene Lueders and Claude Tracey caught some beautiful crappie up at Nicholson. They fished in a gravel pit. I know they got 'em because I was invited to a fish fry by Claude and Hazel, Sunday night. And were they delicious?

Henry J. Calamari of Ansley took his 11 year old son on his first hunt with his own gun. Ronnie killed a gray duck, black mallard, green wing teal and a coot. Not a bad trip for his first outing. Henry said that the green trout are hitting good down Ansley way. Will make that trip with you someday.

M. M. Maddox who has a home on Bayou Phillip does all kinds of fishing. He said the fish are really biting just now. Invited me to go fly fishing with him. Bayou Phillip and Bayou La Croix are noted for bass and perch fishing.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

AVOID OFF-FLAVORED MILK

The best way to avoid having off-flavored milk is to carry out good management production practices each day. Here are some suggestions:

Keep barns and loafing areas clean and free from manure and mud in order to have clean cows.

Wash the udder and teats with a sanitizer and water just before milking. Use individual paper towels to dry each udder.

Do not feed silage until after milking. Avoid grazing cows where wild onions are growing.

Keep the milking parlor clean and well ventilated. Immediately after use, clean equipment and utensils. Sanitize just before using.

Sometimes off-flavors develop in milk from cows in very late lactation. If this occurs, dry off the cows that are producing the off-flavored milk.

FERTILIZER SITUATION
Fertilizer supplies are going to be short again next planting season. Therefore, the cost of them are likely to be as high or higher than present costs. To best use available fertilizer, test your soil.

Soils that test medium or above in phosphate and potash are not likely to lose much yield if these two plant foods are left off. Liming acid soils

News

St. Clare's School faculty will entertain mothers of children attending St. Clare's School at a social at 10:30 a.m. December 19 in the school cafeteria.

Mass will be celebrated at 8:45 a.m. December 20 in St. Clare's church for St. Clare's school children and parents. The students' Christmas party and dismissal of classes for the Christmas holidays will follow.

Thanks fellow.

Charley Ladner does both fresh water fly fishing and casting. Been doing pretty good lately, he said.

Was a nice writeup about Wayne Allison who has just completed 33 years as a Hancock County health officer. Wayne has been a great fisherman that long too.

Expert: a fisherman who has caught two fish.

Fishing writer: A fisherman who writes stories mostly about other fishermen's catches because he rarely catches anything himself to write about - Hattiesburg American.

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission reminds hunters that the seasons for woodcock and snipe opened December 7 and will run concurrently through February 9, inclusive.

J. Burton Angelle, commission director, said that the daily bag limit on woodcock was five, with a possession limit of 10. The daily bag limit on snipe is eight, with a possession limit of 16. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Charley Prest had a ball last week giving his friends red fish he caught at Empire while staying at the camp of his nephew. He brought back two ice boxes of the prize fish. Had some fun catching them, he said. Charley is a past master at this kind of fishing.

A good way to barbecue fish is to put them but not scale them. Split them open. Make own barbecue sauce and eat meat with a fork. Red fish, sheepshead, large green trout and speckles are delicious when prepared this way.

Did you know that Channel Bass (called Bar Bass, Barfish, Bull Redfish) are a relatively good food fish depending on size. Large sizes are as a rule, coarse. They are found in protected water, such as bays, etc. Locally they are known as Channel Mullet.

From information we are told there are plenty quail in the woods. It takes good dogs to find them, and a good hunter to kill them. Quail are really Bobwhite. They are flushed by bird dogs in coveys and usually travel by foot. They stay in limited areas - a fast flying target.

Ken Boudry is taking up wrestling at school. Ken won two matches last week. He's my grandson.

Timothy and Pat Haggerty both love to fish. They will be over as soon as they get their boat repaired and can get time off. Both are ambitious young men who say "work comes first, fishing, later." Two more grandsons.

Dove hunters say that they are killing a few doves but not like they ought to. They just haven't come down yet.

Bub Genin and the group he hunts with got a number of the prize birds over the last weekend. Cold weather should help a bit, according to Bub.

Ace Jones was telling us of the number of fish he has been catching. I don't think he has even been out.

Ray Kidd stated he has been catching some speckles and reds out in the marsh. Don't go often he said.

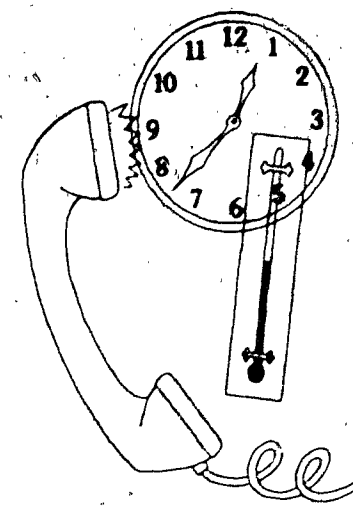

The Christmas party given for the senior citizens last Friday night was a honey according to those who attended. A good crowd was on hand, making merry and enjoying the Yule Tide festivities.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Marion Strahan loves to fish and catch shrimp and crabs. He is retired, stays at Ansley and goes fishing regularly. Says it's a wonderful way to pass the time as well as put food on the table.

25th ANNIVERSARY - Bay Waveland Yacht Club celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary at a gala party Saturday evening at the Club. About 300 members and guests were present as Commodore Ray Stieffel paid tribute to all the past commodores. A silver memento of the occasion and a BWYC lapel pin were presented to each of the following: Past Commodores Hardin Shattuck, William B. Whitfield, E. P. Larroux, W. Ray Gordon, Leroy McFarland, Edward Heath, Richard Reeves, Mrs. Kenneth W. Pepperdene, Carlos Lozano, Jr., son of Commodore Carlos Lozano, Donald Chamberlain, Alvin Weinfurter, Mrs. Henry B. Chapman, and John E. Bell. In addition an engraved silver champagne goblet was given to Bay Waveland's first commodore, John Bell, upon whose enthusiasm and determination the cornerstone of this yacht club was laid. Recognition was given to Albert Ishem who has served regularly at Bay Waveland since the club first opened 25 years ago, and to Rudy Labat for his 23 years of faithful service. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Gulf Coast Dixieland Jazz Band, with guest player Walter Chamberlain on his banjo.

Results of the election of the six new members to the board of governors will be announced at the annual stockholders meeting which will be held at the Club at 7:30 Saturday. The much needed harbor improvements will be discussed at this time.

NRA opposes lead shot ban

The NRA is now officially on record with the U.S. Government as opposing the current steel shot proposals of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The NRA position as stated at a public hearing in Washington, D.C., Oct. 22, is so strong that it implies that the organization may take court action, if necessary, to halt the present Federal move.

The NRA stand against requiring all U.S. waterfowl hunters to substitute steel shot for lead shot beginning in 1976 is based on several NRA Staff conclusions:

The need for the change never has been reliably established.

Effects of the substitution of steel shot for lead are largely unknown.

The present Federal proposal would require the change even in areas where no problem with lead shot has been noted.

The official NRA statement

WON'T YOU BE A SENIOR VOLUNTEER - OTHER PEOPLE NEED YOU - WE NEED YOU. CALL R.S.V.P. - A UNITED FUND AGENCY - 467-9204.

also contained two legal allegations: That the Government agency in drafting the proposal arbitrarily relied on inadequate, outdated, statistically unsound data in violation of the U.S. Administrative Procedure Act of 1946, and that the Draft Environmental Statement (DES 74-75) required under the 1946 act further fails to comply with the 1969 National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) in at least three fundamental respects. The steel shot proposal was advanced after Federal officials and others expressed concern that millions of bottom-feeding ducks were swallowing spent lead shot and dying of lead poisoning. The NRA questioned the extent of this, and also whether the substitution of steel shot represented the best solution. From THE AMERICAN RIFLEMAN, December, 1974.
